Paddy Ryan, after being severely pounded by Sullivan, is a more apt scholar than Tilden.

The Inter Ocean says, "Oscar Wilde does not know himself." Of course he doesn't. It takes a wise man to know himself.

Mr. Oscar Wilde delivered his lecture at Central Music hall, Chicago, on Monday, to 2,000 persons. He pleased the ladies very much, who thought he was "just splendid," and "Oh, so nice."

The mystery connected with the shooting of A. M. Sotello, in Washington, has been solved. The coroners jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by a pistol held in the hands of his brother.

Vice President David Davis, is dining his way to popular favor. His third official dinner was given on Saturday night. The way to reach a majority of men is through their stomachs, and Judge Davis knows what he is doing.

It is said that Thomas K. Beecher, of Elmira, New York, a half-brother of Henry Ward, is decidedly eccentric in his habits. He is fond of beer and billiards, and does not conceal the fact. Politically he is a Greenbacker. His Greenbackism explains it all.

John W. Gaitan, brother of the assassin, has left Washington for his home in Boston. He says his brother would rather be hanged than go to an asylum for life. The country, also, would rather he would be hanged than go to an asylum.

The greatest Opera festival ever given in this country is that now being held in Cincinnati. Tickets to the amount of $80,000 had been sold up to Saturday. The Mapleson Opera company will take part in the festival, appearing Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and Wednesday and Saturday matinees.atti and her company will sing Tuesday and Saturday evenings.

If things keep on as they have been going for the past few months the Democrats won't be able to count with any certainty upon the South standing by them. The Southern papers not only oppose the Democratic attack on National banks, but in Kentucky, a State once 80,000 Democratic majority, they are providing means for the education of the negro.

A dispatch from Washington says that tickets of admission to the Garfield memorial exercises at the Capitol in Washington on the 27th instant, are in great demand. Each Senator, Representative and delegate in Congress is entitled to three tickets, and some of them have had several dozen applications for tickets already. The Chairmen of the joint committee alone have the control of the tickets, which are not yet printed.

Mr. Thomas M. Nichol says, through the New York Tribune, that the "Stalwarts" are trying to crush him. Mr. Nichol should borrow no trouble on that score. The Stalwarts are trying to do no such thing. They don't propose to waste any strength, and therefore he may as well turn his attention to his "banking" business and possess his soul with peace. One can't handle pitch without becoming dandied.

A Washington special to the Milwaukee Republican says that the Wisconsin members are unanimous against the apportionment bill fixing the number at 320, and are in favor of the substitute of Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, which gives a basis of 321, which would give Wisconsin nine members. The committee bill is based upon the "Seaton method," which gives New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois one for a fraction and one more adding to the representation of those States by diminishing that of others.

The Gazette has printed many accounts of large tumors being removed from ladies, but that removed by Dr. William Goodall, of the University of Pennsylvania, from a woman 31 years old, is larger than any heretofore mentioned by the Gazette. The operation which Dr. Goodall performed, was done in the presence of thirty physicians. The ovarian tumor weighing 112 pounds was removed from a woman whose name is not divulged, residing at Blanchard, Pa., and the mother of three children. When the tumor had been removed the woman weighed only seventy-five pounds, so Dr. Goodall said, "Instead of taking the tumor away from the woman I took the woman from the tumor."

They have a strange way of doing things in St. Louis, as will be seen from the following. A short time ago Edward M. Kirtland, a son of the senior member of the firm of Kirtland, Humphreys & Co., prominent cotton factors, forged a check for $8,500 and received the money on it. Part of the money had been given to Kate Williams, a woman of the town. When the forgery had become known, Kirtland and Kate were arrested, and on her person were found $2,900, Kirtland's gold watch, two railway tickets for Albuquerque, New Mexico, and several other valuable articles given to her by Kirtland. Kirtland's father is rich, and the whole family moved in the highest society circles in the city. Young Kirtland was arrested on Saturday night, and on Sunday night it was decided by the firm not to prosecute him, on the condition that he would repent and turn over a new leaf. He has a wife and two children, and is 28 years old. St. Louis should not try to surpass Chicago in everything, not even to the compromising of a crime.

LEGISLATIVE.

Special to the Gazette.

SENATE.

MADISON, Feb. 14.—In the Senate, the bill restoring capital punishment, coming up Senator Hall made an eloquent argument against the passage of the bill. He was followed by Senator Wing in favor of the bill. It was then recommitted to the judiciary committee for perfection.

ASSEMBLY.

In the Assembly, Speaker Gilson presented a report from the State treasurer showing that the amount of money in the St. Croix land grant trespass fund amounts to only $24,000.

The conferring of the land grant on the Omaha Railroad Co., was taken up. All pending amendments were voted down, and it was discussed at great length.

The Assembly remained in session until 1 o'clock p. m., and the discussion still continues. The temper of the Assembly is to pass the bill. At half-past one the bill was ordered read a third time and the Assembly adjourned.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

New York, Feb. 13.—The Lincoln Club celebrated to-night the 73d anniversary of the birthday of President Lincoln. General Grant, Emory A. Storrs, Senator McDonald, and Governor Cornell were among the guests. General Grant, in a speech said he never met Mr. Lincoln till March 1864. "I like the name of the club, because it bears the name of the greatest man whom this country ever produced." Mr. Storrs said: "Abraham Lincoln was a typical American citizen. He led the Republican party in its fresh, vigorous, bright days, when it did not tamper with wrong, and knew no half-breed in its ranks." (Cheers and cries of 306.) "It was a party sired by freedom, and there could be no cross in such stock."

THE SOTELLO TRAGEDY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—All mystery as to who fired the fatal shot in the Sotello tragedy was solved to day, by the evidence taken before the coroner's jury. After a consultation of less than ten minutes, the following verdict was rendered:

That Antonio M. Sotello, Jr., came to his death between 10 and 11 o'clock p. m., February 11, 1882, at Providence hospital, Washington, D. C., from a pistol shot wound of the neck, inflicted with a pistol held in the hands of Augustus C. Sotello, on the night of February 9, at the Republican office.

It was proven that Barton's pistol was not fired at the time, and that the empty barrel was discharged long before. All the chambers in the dead Sotello's pistol were loaded. It appears that, at the antimortem examination of the elder Sotello, nothing of importance was obtained. In answer to questions, he said Barton shot him, and he had made his peace with God. He forgave him. The younger brother is in jail, and overwhelmed with grief, and wails constantly about his poor brother who had been a father to him. Both of the Sotellos held government positions at the time of the affray. The younger one once served a year in the penitentiary for his participation with three others in the robbery of Horatio C. Welsh, in New York, in 1878; he took Welsh's purse from his pocket, while his confederates held him, but escaped with one year, by pleading guilty of assault, with intent to rob.

ALL DANGER PASSED.

BRADFORD, Penn. Feb. 13.—The feeling of danger from the burning oil tanks at Olean was relieved at 1 o'clock to-day. The total amount of oil destroyed is 115,000. The loss on the oil will be borne by a general average assessment on all persons having oil stored with the United Pipe Lines. Overflows, from which the greatest danger was apprehended, occurred at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but a sufficient amount of oil had been drawn off by cannon bombardment of the burning tanks, so that the overflow did not pass over the ditches and trenches prepared during the night. A force of 300 men were on the ground during the night and day. The experiment by the chemical fire extinguished on the burning oil could not be made, because of the engine being disabled before the work commenced. The three tanks are still burning, but the danger is passed.

OBITUARY.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 13.—Captain Joseph K. Hyer, aged 37, a retired officer of the United States army, died yesterday, at the Carrollton hotel, of this city of heart disease. Hyer was born in Wisconsin, and was appointed to West Point Military Academy, graduating in 1855. He entered the army as second lieutenant of the Eighteenth Infantry, and was subsequently promoted to be First-Lieutenant and Captain. In 1879 he retired from the army on account of heart disease, which he contracted in making a forced horse-back ride of eighty-five miles in twenty-six hours. He leaves a widow, the only daughter of the late Surgeon W. J. Sloan, of the United States army. His remains will be taken to St. Paul Minn. for interment.

She Passed it Along.

"I send you my testimonial in reference to SPRING BLOSSOM, having taken it for dyspepsia, and receiving almost immediate relief. I passed it to my neighbor, who is using it with same results."

113 YEARS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Herald has the following special from Pittsburg, Pa.: "Julia Powell, a negro woman, aged 113 years, died here to-day. She was born about twenty miles below Richmond, Va., in 1769, and was a slave. Her master, at his death, set her free and left her some property, but she could not hold it under the law. She came here in 1845, and has been here ever since. She married a man much younger than herself, and leaves a son, who is himself a great-grandfather. Her age was well authenticated. She told many stories of events which took place in Virginia during the revolutionary war, and told them with so many details that were authenticated by history, and have been accepted as true by even skeptical newspaper men."

Physical Suffering.

No one can realize, except by personal experience, the anguish of mind and body endured by sufferers from dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, and other diseases of the stomach. BROADBENT'S BLOOD PURIFIER is a positive cure for this direct of all diseases. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.
Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Sherer & Co.

CONSPIRACY.

ADRIAN, Mich., Feb. 13.—The complaint against Mayor Navin and Kalp J. Jewell for having conspired to fraudulently, falsely, deceitfully, etc., obtain from the Union Trust company, D. A. Easton, and Post, Martin & Co., all of New York, the sum of $150,000, was this afternoon changed to include Alderman Fred Clark, president pro tem. of the council, acting mayor, and chairman of the finance committee, who, it is alleged, was with Navin, in New York when he negotiated the bonds. Alderman Clark was arrested in front of the Lawrence house at 3:30 p. m. He was held in $5,000 bail. Alderman Metcalf and C. E. Wetmore becoming his sureties. Jewell was discharged under the original complaint, and immediately rearrested under the amended one. He was brought before a justice, and, being unable to give bail, was this time remanded to jail. County Prosecutor Watts will go to New York to-morrow to look after matters there and procure evidence. He will be accompanied by Alderman Clark.

Full of "Specs."

The real old-fashioned Yankee is still a fixture among us, though some writers would make us believe that he has been dead for years. There was a genuine specimen in the Erie depot yesterday, and he was explaining to several interested parties:

"Father-in-law lives here in Jersey City, and I'm on a visit like. Thought I'd bring along a few traps and things and get up a dicker or two. Any of ye like to invest in that?"

He put out the model of a rat trap and said:

"This trap not only catches the varmints, but it chokes 'em to death, throws the body out of that back window, and then resets itself. In the top is an alarm, to go off any hour you want and wake up the family. Here's an apparatus on this side for grating spices. Any of you like to buy county rights?"

No one did, and he then placed before them a vessel, about which he explained:

"This is now a water-pail. By placing this iron cover on the bottom it becomes a kettle. By inverting the cover you have a spider. The pail is a half-bushel measure to a grain. Once around it is exactly a yard. Its weight is exactly two pounds, and I sell the county rights for $50 each."

The next was a boot-jack, which could be transformed into fire-flogs, press-board, stove-handle, nail-hammer and several other things. He had an auger which bored four holes at once, a gimlet which bored a square hole; a washing-machine which could also be made to serve as a tea-table, and one or two other things, and as he reached the last he said:

"Gentlemen, I am full of speculations. I'll invent anything you want. I'll sell anything I've got. I'll take pay in anything you have, and I'll give every one of you a chance to make a million dollars."

USEFUL HINTS.

COMBE says, in preserving beef, the ribs will keep longest—five or six days in summer—the middle of the loin next, the rump next, the round next, and, the shortest of all, the brisket, which will not keep more than three days in hot weather.

To fix pencil marks so they will not rub out, take well-skimmed milk and dilute with an equal bulk of water. Wash the pencil marks (whether writing or drawing) with this liquid, using a soft camel-hair brush, and avoiding all rubbing. Place upon a flat board to dry.

HANGING MEAT.—Meat should be hung long enough to grow tender; if too long it becomes dry, loses its juices and weight, and if not hung long enough it is tough and hard. It should also be hung where the air is clear and cool, but not in a strong current, as then it will dry out its juices. It is said that if you steam a tough piece of meat for half an hour, then roast it in the ordinary manner, it will be tender.

CALENDERS.—Whitewash rubs off the walls upon the hands and clothing; calcimine does not. Calcimine—prepared kaolin—can be obtained at almost any drug store at trifling cost. To prepare it for the place it is in a vessel of suitable size, then seal it with sufficient water to make it the consistency of hot mush. Let it partially cool; then thin down with skimmed milk to the proper consistency for use. Skimmed milk is best, as the fatty or butter part of new milk would spoil the mixture. Observe these directions and the material will be ready for use. Apply with a whitewash brush. This mixture will work smoothly and not drag under the brush as most other mixtures for whitewash. It can be colored to suit the taste of those using it.

FOR THE HANDS.—In order to preserve the hands soft and white they should always be washed in warm water with fine soap, and carefully dried with a moderately coarse towel, being well rubbed every time to insure a brisk circulation, than which nothing can be more effectual in promoting a transparent and soft surface. If engaged in any accidental pursuit which may hurt the color of the hands, or if they have been exposed to the sun, a little lemon juice will restore their whiteness for the time, and lemon soap is proper to wash them with. Almond paste is of essential service in preserving the delicacy of the hands. The following is a serviceable pomade for rubbing the hands on retiring to rest: Take two ounces of sweet almond oil; beat with three drachms of white wax and three drachms of spermaceti; put up carefully in rose water. Gloves should always be worn on exposure to the atmosphere.

An Outside Whitewash.

Few people know how easily whitewash is made, and how valuable when properly applied. It not only prevents the decay of wood, but is greatly conducive to the healthfulness of buildings, whether wood or stone. Out-buildings and fences, when not painted, should be supplied once or twice a year with a good coat of whitewash, which should be prepared in the following way:

Take a clean, water-tight barrel, or other suitable cask, and put into it about half a bushel of lime; slack it by pouring water over it boiling hot, and put in a sufficient quantity of water to cover it five inches deep, and stir it briskly until thoroughly slacked; when the slacking has been thoroughly effected, dissolve it in water, and add two pounds of sulphate of zinc and common salt. These will cause the wash to harden and prevent its cracking, which gives an unsightly appearance to the work.

If desirable, a beautiful cream color may be given to the above wash by adding three pounds of yellow ochre; or a good paint by lead, lamp, vine or ivory black. For fawn color, add four pounds of amber, Turkish or American—the latter is the cheaper—one pound of Indian red, one pound of common lamp-black.—Furner's Magazine and Rural Guide.

Growing Old.

"James," said the grocer, as he looked over his spectacles at the boy who was measuring out half a bushel of potatoes. "I find that I have spelt 'sugar' with an 'h' in it. Is that right?"

"No, sir," replied the clerk, after spelling the word over several times.

"No, I guess it isn't, but I hate to scratch it out. What shall I do?"

"If it was me, sir, and I had put an 'h' in sugar, I should order hams and leave the 'h' off there."

"Of course—of course. Really, James, but I begin to feel my age, and I only wonder that I don't some time spell eggs with two g's."

M. PRUDHOMME lauds the advantages of gymnastics. "There is nothing like it for the health," he says; "it increases a man's strength, prolongs his days—'But our ancestors did not practice gymnastics, and yet—' They did not, and what is the consequence? They are dead, every man of them."

War don't railway corporations take more women into their employment? Most of them know how to manage them, they can handle blunders very carefully, there is less color blindness among them than among men—and occasionally one is found who can "fire up" beautifully.

BANG your hair all you want to, girls. Then people can hear it, and know that you are coming; beside, the bang must lend a killing effect to it. And if "he" sneers at it, bang him. Bang anything; bang Banagher if you will; anything but the door.—Burdette.

A poor old rheumatic lady said to her physician: "Oh, doctor, doctor! I suffer so much with my hands and feet!" "Be patient, dear madam," he soothingly responded, "you'd suffer a great deal more without them."

The Language of Sweet Sixteen.

"My daughter never uses slang," says some staid pater familias, who is denouncing the idea that the American young lady speaks any other than the purest college-taught English, and he is sincere in his belief. But should some curious senior, with an eye to the truth, linger near this young lady and her school friends, ten to one this is an exact and not overdrawn description of what he would hear:

"Meet me on the ave' this aft' and we will go to the mat."
"No! not this aft' on the ave'."
"Well, good aft'!"
"I had a perfectly mag' time, and don't you forget it."
"Don't give me away, Kate."
"Well I should softly exclaim."
"I should blush to murmur."
"I should remark."
"I should mutter."
"I should smile."
"Are you going to the musicale?"
"You just bet I am."
"Have you got your lesson in physical geography?"
"What do you take me for?"
"I told the Guv' I wanted a new handkerchief dress."
"Did he tumble to the racket?"
"Did he trail?"
"Did he catch on?"
"He forked over, girls, and it's my treat."

These are the sweet girl graduates who stand up in the month of roses and read charming essays on "The Real and the Ideal," "Life as it Should Be," "Reforms," and other practical subjects, and who turn from admiring teachers to whom they have listened with tears in their mock-serious eyes, to say in a low aside, "He's giving us taffy, girls," and who christen everything that does not please them as "snide."

This period of slang among school girls is infectious. They catch it just as they did the measles and whooping cough at an earlier age, and it runs its course and leaves them about as harmlessly. Their good, proper mothers and grandmothers said all their lives, "Will you take a walk?" The "Dare-to-be-a-Daniel" of this age says to her chum, "Take a crawl on the ave'!"—Free Press.

One of Sothen's last requests was that his friends should not attend his burial, as "people catch such colds standing about in grave-yards with their hats off."
